

29th January 2021

Dear All

From the puddles of well-trodden snow to the dizzy temperature heights of 14c, this weather has certainly delivered a mixed bag. Fortunately, the same cannot be said about the children who have been consistently enthusiastic about their learning and, also, it looks like we may have a tentative date for full opening- so keep March 8th in your diaries.

Virtual Remote Cook Book- calling all vloggers

This week's challenge (please see link: shorturl.at/qBHL4) is to get your child(ren) to record themselves making their favourite lockdown recipe. You will see an 'excellent' example of my own, I used iMovie to edit it and I was surprised at how easy it was. Ideally, the clips need to be short (no longer than 5 minutes) and need to be filmed in landscape. We then ask you to upload them on Google Classroom by Monday 8th February. Then we will put them on the shared point so that you can access them and, not only can you watch one another cooking but perhaps try a new recipes.

100 Readers

Well done to Leo W, Scott and Noel for reaching a 100 reads.

Well done to Cynie and her family for skipping a grand total of 171 skips in a minute.

How many burpees did you manage in one minute? Well done to Mr. P for beating Coach O's 22 with a mammoth 23. Can I point out that neither had their chest to the ground?

This week's challenge:

How long can you wall sit for?

Well done to Solomon, Victor and Bibi who obviously have quads of steel.
